DETAILED ACTION

Title

1. The new title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Claim Objections

2. Claims 2, 25, and 27 are objected to because of the following informalities. Claim 2 recites that the process cartridge photosensitive body comprises plural photosensitive drums. Claim 25 recites that the relative positions between the process cartridge and the process device or photosensitive body changes during loading via the guide member, which is not taught by the instant invention. The relative positions between the photosensitive body in the process cartridge and the process device changes during loading. Claim 27 contains a misspelling in line 3. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.
4. Claims 46-49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claim 46 contains non-idiomatic English or typographical errors and is not supported in the specification. The limitation "first transformation element" is undefined in the specification and it is unclear if the specification teaches an object that changes shape as recited in the claims.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

5. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(a) the invention was known or used by others in this country, or patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country, before the invention thereof by the applicant for a patent.

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

(c) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

6. Claims 2, 4-8, and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Sato (JP62-145258A). The image forming apparatus by Sato teaches a process cartridge 2, an exposing unit 6, and wherein the photosensitive body 3 and a processing device of the process cartridge 2 have changeable relative positions during loading and unloading (Figures 1 and 3-4, and 6-7). The process device is a developing device 8. The developing roller contacts the photosensitive member during operation (abstract).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

7. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

8. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

9. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sato et al. in view of Nishikawa. Sato et al. does not teach that the developing device is a non-contact developing device.

Nishikawa teaches a non-contact developing device. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use the teaching of Sato et al. with a non-contact type developing device to prevent collisions of the process device and the photosensitive member (purpose: lines 1-7).

Allowable Subject Matter

10. Claims 9-13 and 26 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Claims 14-18, 20-24, and 27-45 contain allowable subject matter.

Prior Art Made of Record

11. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Oguma et al. teaches a process cartridge wherein the contact member is guided to a contact position by a guide member in the image forming device.

Response to Arguments

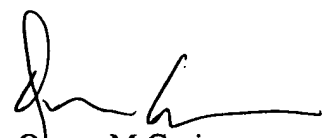

12. Applicant's arguments filed 11-23-2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The rejected claims recite that the relative positions between the process cartridge and the photosensitive body or process device changes. However, the distance between the photosensitive body and the process device changes. Since the claims are unclear, the claims remain rejected.
